STUDENT ENROLLMENT PROJECTIONS

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a major in Human Resource Management (52.1001) – Fort Leonard Wood (0007)

Year	1	2	3	4	5
Full Time	32	33	34	35	36
Part Time	64	66	68	70	72
Total	96	99	102	105	108

Please provide a rationale regarding how student enrollment projections were calculated:

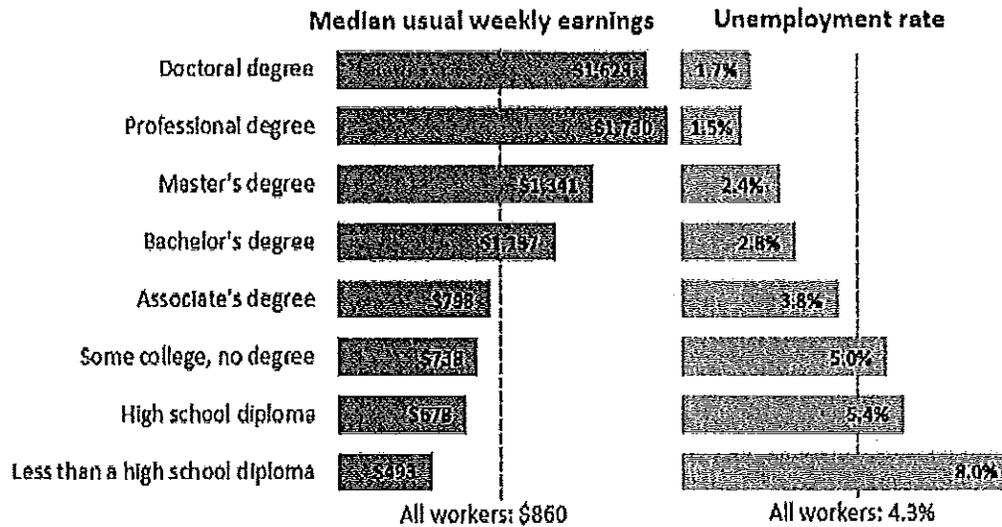

Columbia College applied a base enrollment projection of 32 full-time students since the Fort Leonard Wood location has a comparable amount of students enrolled in the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration program. Since the Fort Leonard Wood location is adding the major in Human Resource Management to the existing program, an approximate 3% increase is applied for each year after Year 1. The base for the part-time enrollment projections is determined by doubling the amount of full-time students.

Provide a rationale for proposing this program, including evidence of market demand and societal need supported by research:

A principle focus of the program is to prepare students for entry-level positions and for advancement in various occupations and professions. Also, faculty prepare students to pursue the study of business at the graduate level or to obtain professional placement in their chosen fields. The faculty of the Business Administration Department encourage wide and varied preparation in the liberal arts and sciences to provide students with an appreciation for the social and cultural environment in which business is transacted.

Program Name Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a major in Human Resource Management
Date 6/2016

(Although all of the following guidelines may not be applicable to the proposed program, please carefully consider the elements in each area and respond as completely as possible in the format below. Quantification of performance goals should be included wherever possible.)

1. Student Preparation

- Any special admissions procedures or student qualifications required for this program which exceed regular university admissions, standards, e.g., ACT score, completion of core curriculum, portfolio, personal interview, etc. Please note if no special preparation will be required.

Columbia College admission requirements are considered "moderately selective."

Day Program: The primary factors considered in the admissions process are overall high school or secondary school performance (grades) and performance on standardized tests such as the ACT or SAT I (test scores). Admission is generally granted to students who rank in the top half of their graduating class or who score at the 50th percentile or above on the ACT, SAT I, HiSET or equivalent. Students must also have a cumulative minimum high school grade point average of 2.5. Columbia College accepts college credit from these programs: CLEP, Advanced Placement (AP), International Baccalaureate (IB), Dual Credit, Proficiency Exams, DANTES, and Credit for Prior Learning.

Evening Program: Columbia College wants to make the admission process as streamlined as possible. If you have a high school diploma; HiSET or equivalent; or previous college experience, complete the printable application or apply online and send transcripts from high school and all colleges and universities you have attended. The Evening Campus admission requirements are considered "moderately selective." The Admissions Office will consider your overall high school performance, HiSET or equivalent scores, and any college coursework. Your academic past is important, but so are your life accomplishments, so personal letters of recommendation and resumes are welcome additions to your application file. New freshmen requirements include minimum 50th percentile class rank or test score (ACT, SAT, HiSET or equivalent) and 2.0 cumulative grade point average. Freshman applicants who graduated from high school more than two years ago typically are not required to submit ACT or SAT scores. Transfer students must have earned a minimum 2.0 cumulative grade point average. If you have accrued more than 24 college credits, your high school transcript will not likely be required. There is a $35 application fee, which is nonrefundable.

Online Education: Current students enrolled at Columbia College, may take online courses without readmission to the Columbia College Online Education. Students who have never attended Online Education, can apply for admission at the location nearest them. Remote students not near a Columbia College location can apply online for admission. Students may be admitted upon presentation of any one of the following: high school diploma; successful completion of the HiSET or equivalent; evidence of satisfactory college work.

Nationwide Locations: Students may be admitted upon presentation of any of the following: high school diploma; successful completion of the HiSET or equivalent; evidence of satisfactory college work. Pride Points

For the eighth year in a row, Columbia College has been ranked in the top tier of "America's Best Colleges" by U.S. News & World Report. Columbia College earned the No. 58 spot as one of America's "Best Regional Universities-Midwest" and also ranked No. 2 for "Least Debt Load," a newer category listing schools whose class of 2010 graduated with the least amount of debt. Columbia College's online bachelor's degree programs, the MBA and the Master of Arts in Teaching were recognized in the first-ever edition of Top Online Education Programs by U.S. News & World Report, released January 2012. Recognition was based on teaching practices and student engagement, faculty credentials and training and student services and technology. In order to be considered for the rankings, online degree programs needed to have at least 80 percent of their course content available online.

Military Advanced Education, a publication that focuses on educational services and opportunities for military students, listed Columbia College in its 2012 Guide to Military-Friendly Colleges & Universities. According to MAE, with a record number of submissions, this year's guide is more comprehensive than ever before. Selected schools have met rigorous criteria informed by education services officers across the services and have truly earned the designation of "military-friendly." Institutions such as Columbia College, says MAE, set the gold standard for serving the men, women, spouses and retirees who serve or have served our country.

G.I. Jobs magazine selected Columbia College as a military-friendly school for 2012 due to the College's steadfast commitment to educating military and student veterans. The honor places the College in the top 20 percent of all schools nationwide. The magazine evaluates institutions on such things as being a VA approved institution for the GI Bill and Yellow Ribbon benefits, military and veteran enrollments, generous transfer credit policies, flexible learning programs and tuition benefits.

GetEducated.com, a respected clearinghouse of accredited online programs, designated Columbia College as a "Best Buy" for several online degrees. The College's online bachelor's degrees in business, criminal justice, human services, psychology, sociology and master's degrees in business and criminal justice all ranked in the top 10 best buys for their respective categories.

Columbia College has been named a 2012 Best Midwestern College by The Princeton Review, a New York City-based education services company. The College is one of only 153 schools in a 12-state region to receive the "Best Midwestern College" designation. Colleges were selected based on academic excellence and surveys of current students.

The Princeton Review calls Columbia College a "small community with great teachers and lasting friendships" and a college that is serious about "educating the whole person," where academics are bolstered by a "full college experience," and general education requirements ensure that "everyone receives a well-rounded education no matter what one's major is."

According to the Princeton Review's website, "Columbia College opens doors for its students to experience new discoveries, relationships and areas of knowledge that can be explored through thought-provoking, honest dialogue — both in and out of the classroom."

"Academics are strong, grounded in the liberal arts and sciences and offered in a learning environment characterized by civility and respect. Students feel at home on the beautiful campus, located in Columbia, Mo., thanks to the private College's close-knit community where opportunities to get involved are plentiful."

Columbia College is one of only 250 higher educational institutions in the U.S. and six in Missouri to be named a "College of Distinction" by Student Horizons, Inc., an organization that seeks to go beyond commercially driven rankings of admission selection standards to focus on the quality of education students receive.

Colleges are recognized for their commitment and performance of the "Four Distinctions:" engaged students, great teaching, vibrant communities and successful outcomes. The selection process also involves reviewing faculty/student ratios, average class size, the student first-year experience, general education curriculum, experiential elements in the curriculum, residential and extra-curricular activities and the school's strategic plan.

Quality Assurance for Off-Site Programs

A. General Oversight: Describe the manner in which this program will be managed. How does the management of this program fit within the institution's academic administrative structure?

The Director of the campus is responsible for institutional program administration. The Director ensures that the program will be managed at the campus location. Mike Randerson, the Vice President for Adult Higher Education is responsible for all off campus programs. He reports directly to the President and works through the Executive Vice President and Dean for Academic Affairs on all academic issues. The Adult Higher Education office is staffed by one Dean, three Associate Deans, four Assistant Deans, a Director of Budget & Personnel, a Director of Compliance, a Director of Special Projects, a Faculty Coordinator, an Academic Advisor Coordinator & Trainer, a Budget & Personnel Specialist, an Accounts Payable Coordinator, a Compliance Specialist, an Executive Assistant, and three administrative assistants. Attached are copies of the organizational charts for Columbia College Adult Higher Education Division.

B. Faculty Qualifications: How do the qualifications of faculty at this site compare with those of faculty for this program at the main campus? Please note the comparable data regarding the proportion of course-section coverage by full-time faculty at each site.

All adjunct faculty teaching at the main campus, online or at one of the nationwide campuses, must meet the same requirements established by the academic departments at the main campus. The minimum requirement for teaching any class is a master's degree in the field with relevant graduate coursework and/or professional or college-level teaching experience related to the subject matter of the course being taught. The campus director is responsible for recruiting, screening and interviewing potential faculty members. If the candidate meets the criteria established by the main campus, the director submits the candidate's academic transcripts, current resume and other appropriate documentation to the main campus with a recommendation that the candidate be approved to teach specific courses. Similarly, the director recommends current instructors to teach additional courses based on the departmental criteria. The Division of Adult Higher Education compares the recommendation against the established standards and forwards the recommendation to the appropriate academic department for review. The department reviews the candidate's credentials and recommends approval or disapproval (of each course requested) to the Executive Vice President and Dean for Academic Affairs, who is the final approving authority. If approved, the director offers teaching assignments to the adjunct faculty member as needed.

NOTE: other than Nursing faculty at one location in Missouri, there are no full-time faculty teaching at nationwide campus locations.

C. Supportive Services: Describe how the institution will ensure that students at this site will be able to access services such as academic support, library, computing, and financial aid, as well as other administrative functions, at a level of quality comparable to that of on-campus programs.

(Attachment 2: General Information About Stafford Library)

Computing:

All Columbia College students are required to take or have earned the equivalent of CISS 170 -- "Introduction to Computer Information Systems." In the 2011-2012 AHE Undergraduate Catalog (page 63) this course is described as an "Overview of computer hardware, software, programming, and information systems as applied in the modern business environment. Hands-on applications of word processing, spreadsheets and data management software are used to explore use of microcomputers in business."

Library Resources:

All students have access to extensive Stafford Library electronic resources provided by the College. Students may access the online library via the Internet using their Columbia College eServices login and password. In addition, Missouri campus students have access to physical resources via MOBIUS.

Faculty are instructed to guide students to appropriate Columbia College resource databases for their disciplines. Faculty often request use of computer labs for a hands-on guide to their classes. The staff is also able to direct students to the College's research library databases in a one-on-one tutorial.

The College program of writing across the curriculum means that many courses, at both the upper and lower level, require research papers or assignments requiring database research. Students become more competent in using library technologies through practice.

Academic Support:

There are academic advisors at each Nationwide campus that rely on official evaluations from the main campus. All academic advisors must meet certain minimum qualifications for the position, including a Baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited institution with proven academic success (normally defined by a minimum GPA of 3.0). In addition, more focus is being placed on attracting and selecting candidates who have earned or are in the process of earning a Master's degree.

Academic Advisor conferences are held at the main campus at least every two years to provide refresher and extra training to advisors. Additional training is provided by the Academic Advisor Coordinator and Trainer from the main campus, online and through visits to nationwide campuses.

The College begins assisting students with degree completion at the time of admission. Students are required to list and submit transcripts from all colleges previously attended. College staff encourage all servicemembers and, prior servicemembers, to submit an SMARTS or equivalent document as soon as possible. Servicemembers are also informed of the requirements to have an official SOC degree plan completed by the time the student has completed five classes in order to continue to receive tuition assistance.

The main campus Evaluations Department completes a degree checklist and SOC degree plan for each eligible student as soon as all materials are provided. Turn-around time for completion of a degree plan is normally two weeks after the receipt of all documents. Academic advisement is an integral part of the degree completion process. Students are advised at regular intervals: upon admission into the College (newly admitted students are required to meet with an academic advisor prior to registering for courses); upon completion of the official evaluation; after a 90-Hour Degree Audit and; at any other time a student desires during his/her college experience. Beginning with the 2008 early fall session, students have been able to access their degree plans at any time through the eServices feature on the Columbia College website. This allows the student to view his/her degree plan and experiment with "what if" scenarios.

Degree checklists and SOC plans are kept in each student's record and are regularly updated. A final Degree Clearance Evaluation is conducted by the main campus Evaluations Department upon receipt of the student's declaration for graduation, normally two sessions prior to the anticipated graduation date.

A new academic advising Website has been established exclusively for training and distribution of knowledge/informational publications for all Columbia College campuses. A number of publications have been designed to ensure academic advisors have access to the knowledge needed to correctly advise students, including documents designed to inform advisors of possible future changes to the academic curriculum, and publications to provide additional detail and explanation on key academic policies. Additionally, an annual State of Advising report highlights the current state of advising and provides a look at future training and development activities. An academic advisor newsletter is used to illustrate various advising techniques and discuss current trends and literature.

Financial Aid:

The campus has trained staff members who address the issues of various forms of financial aid available to students. Students are able to contact the main campus Registration and Financial Call Center for information via email or an 800 number. Information regarding federal aid and military educational benefits is available in the AHE Course Catalog and online at the College Web site <http://www.ccis.edu/offices/financialaid/>.

Other Functions:

The College has contracted with Missouri Book Service (MBS Direct) to provide all textbooks and instructional materials to students. Students are able to order their textbooks via telephone or from the MBS Direct website however, students may purchase textbooks from any source they choose.

Students have multiple opportunities to attend graduation. The Columbia College main campus has two traditional graduations each year, in December and May. Graduates from any campus are invited to attend either of these graduations. Additionally, Columbia College accomplishes over 20 other commencement ceremonies annually across the nation. Students are able to participate in any of these ceremonies. These opportunities are coordinated at the local level by the directors. All students can petition to participate in a commencement ceremony once they are within 12 credit hours of completing their degree; this allows students completing their degree requirements within the next two sessions to participate in a commencement ceremony close to the time of their actual graduation. All graduates are invited to attend the reception that follows the graduation ceremony.

Each campus holds its own commencement ceremony or participates in a combined commencement ceremony with another location. Each year, a senior representative from the main campus attends the event to confer degrees.

Columbia College students participate in full cap and gown, are presented with a graduation certificate, Columbia College lapel pin and a Latin Honors cord (if appropriate). Graduate students are presented with academic regalia (hoods) during the ceremony.

A reception is held immediately following graduation. Generally, at the reception, College personnel have the opportunity to mingle with the graduates, their families and guests. This also provides an opportunity for photos with graduates and College officials.
