

Missouri Department of Higher Education

Higher Education Headlines

April 18, 2016

Note: A link will no longer provide access to some news stories. Those stories appear in their entirety at the end of this document, as indicated.

University of Missouri countersues professor in gun lawsuit, April 16

Raises unlikely, layoffs possible at University of Missouri System offices because of budget uncertainty, April 16

Thomson to serve on higher education board, April 15

Legislative concerns stall UM System curator's budget talk, April 14

UM police warn students against disruptive protests, April 14

University of Missouri curators cut health insurance subsidies for many future retirees, April 14

High tuition a barrier for undocumented students' college dreams, April 13

UM tuition remains unsettled because of Jefferson City debate, April 13

Lawmaker supports cuts to University of Missouri as price of ignoring past racial concerns, April 12

UM president assures legislators university is making progress on diversity, April 12

Drury University names new president, April 11

Former curator's remarks about presidential search, April 10

International Education Day at the Missouri Capitol is April 12, April 10

Letter: Missouri legislators: Do not reduce funding for MU, April 9

Missouri Senate budget plan sets up debate with House over MU, higher education funding, April 8

Missouri Senate passes $27B spending plan with colleges, universities getting 6 percent boost, April 7

Nixon touts state funding to stop tuition increases, April 7

National grade inflation trend hits University of Missouri, April 7

Next University of Missouri president should be 'audacious,' professor says at forum, April 7

Missouri Senate OKs $27B budget, April 7

Thomson appointed to state's higher education board, April 7

UMSL chancellor proposes eliminating 85 positions to fill budget hole, April 6

MU community weighs in on UM System presidential search, April 6

Only 8 percent of students complete college-and career ready curriculum, April 5