

Default Prevention Day 2013

The Missouri Department of Higher Education offered a free, half-day default prevention training on May 2, 2013. Several schools currently participating in the MDHE Default Prevention Grant program were featured. Attendees learned how to incorporate USDE's financial literacy tool into entrance and exit counseling, about activities to promote financial literacy and how to get students to participate, and ideas for measuring the success of default prevention initiatives.

Agenda

- Greeting from MDHE – Dr. David Russell
- How to use DE's financial literacy tool – Sharon Fraser, Missouri Southern State University
- How to get students to participate – Gena Boling, Stephens College
- Scaling Up Success – Marilyn Landrum, MDHE
- Measuring the success of default prevention initiatives – Valdis Zalite, Southeast Missouri State University
- Cash Cab – Sarah Bright & Tasha Smalley, Jefferson College
